SILOUHETTE SIGNS IN BID TO REDUCE NEW FOREST ANIMAL DEATHS

56 animals were killed on roads in the New Forest in 2017
49 animals were killed between January and August 2018

Commoners have got together to produce the signs which will be placed in local towns and villages throughout the winter.

James Young, whose pony Brock Brocade was killed by a hit-and-run driver, said: "This is the most worrying time of year for every family making the effort to keep the forest properly grazed.

"No pony deserves to be left all night to suffer like Brocade in an unreported hit-and-run.

"I really hope that people will learn to take a little more care, and save other commoners from experiencing such a pointless and awful loss."

#Add3Minutes

Drivers are being urged to just #Add3Minutes as the nights draw in to make journeys safer.

When the clocks change in October, and people have to drive home in the dark, there is a much higher risk of hitting one of the free-roaming animals.

56 animals were killed on New Forest roads in 2017
49 animals were killed between January and August 2018

Most of the accidents are caused by local people on regular trips, on four main routes:

- Lymington – Beaulieu – Dibden Purlieu
- Brockenhurst – Sway
- Burley – Picket Post
- Cadnam – Godshill

Sue Westwood, Clerk to the Verderers said “It’s really important to not only drive slowly past any animals that drivers see close to the road, but also to move over and leave sufficient room as they pass, so that if the animal does step into the road, they can avoid a collision. Colliding with a large animal will add significantly more than three minutes to a journey!”
