

Matthew Scott launches his Victim Voice initiative

Have you been a victim of a crime?

Learn what rights you have.

Learn about available support and how to access it.

Scan the QR code to find out more about Victim Voice.

The Police & Crime Commissioner wants to encourage people to be aware of victims' rights.

It's one of the recommendations that came out of his work into Violence Against Women and Girls (VAWG).

You can download the pamphlet, which includes advice and contact details for victims here via the QR code

Matthew Scott said,

"I have decided to create this Victim Voice Initiative to collate the information in one place, and to raise awareness about victims' rights.

Victims have repeatedly told me they feel their voice is not heard and that they feel reporting a crime does not lead to appropriate action by the criminal justice system.

I want people to feel confident that when they report crime, they get the information and support they deserve, and are legally entitled to."

If you would like to do more to support victims, this pamphlet will help you understand the process and provide you with useful information.