News from St. Nicholas Church

All good wishes for a very Happy New Year

The Christmas celebrations are over and we look forward to Epiphany, the time when the Wise Men visited the baby Jesus and so spread the good news to the wider, non-Jewish world, of the arrival of this wondrous child.

The Carol Service was a highlight of the season with a full church despite the cold, gloomy weather. The decorations and candlelit church gave a warm welcome to all, with the traditional readings and carols reminding us all of the real meaning of our festivities, the birth of a child, a very special child, who eventually gave his life for us.

The Christmas Service at St. John's, Harrietsham especially welcoming those with learning difficulties, their carers and friends on 14th December, was also a very happy and lively occasion. The singing was very enthusiastic and joyful and the special tree well decorated.

At this time of writing we are still looking forward to the Crib Service on Christmas Eve, the Christmas Day family-friendly Communion Service and the Benefice Service at St. Nicholas on Sunday 31st at 10am.

Christmas Coffee Morning was a very successful event, raising almost £300 for Tearfund. Our usual monthly Coffee Morning will be on the 10th January in the Village Hall, 10.30-12noon.

In this New Year morning prayers will be at St. Nicholas on the 3rd and 5th Tuesday and at All Saints, Ulcombe on the 2nd and 4th Tuesday, all at 9.30am

Bible Study Group will be starting again at Weirton Villa, Grafty Green, 10.30am-12noon on Thursdays. Please contact Joan Drury for more details on 01622 853766.

Many thanks to everyone who contributed to the Christmas Coffee Morning, the church decorations, monthly Coffee Mornings, the refreshments, and helped in so many ways throughout the year.

This is a great Winter warmer. Roast your vegetables in honey before blitzing into this smooth, spiced soup. Serve with garlicky, zesty ciabatta slices for dipping.

Sweet Potato & Butternut Squash Soup with Lemon Garlic Toast

500g of sweet potatoes, peeled and diced
1 butternut squash, peeled, deseeded and diced
1 table spoon of clear honey
1 table spoon of olive oil, plus a drizzle
2 onions, roughly chopped
3 garlic cloves, crushed
1 litre of vegetable or chicken stock
1 tea spoon of cinnamon
1 tea spoon of grated nutmeg
100ml of double cream

For the toast

1 table spoon of olive oil
3 garlic cloves, crushed
100g of butter, at room temperature
zest of 1 lemon
2 table spoons of snipped chives
1 table spoon of chopped thyme
2 ciabatta loaves, cut into slices

1. Heat the oven to 220C or 200C for fan oven. Put the sweet potato and butternut squash on a baking tray and add the honey and a drizzle of olive oil. Roast for 40-45 mins until soft and starting to caramelise at the edges, stirring occasionally.

2. Meanwhile, fry the onions in 1 table spoon of olive oil until soft, then add the garlic, chicken stock, cinnamon and nutmeg. Bring to the boil, and simmer for 5 mins.

3. Remove the sweet potatoes and butternut squash from the oven and add to the pan with the stock. Blend everything until smooth using a blender. Stir in most of the cream and bring back to a gentle simmer, and season with salt and pepper to taste.

4. To make the lemon & garlic toasts, gently warm the olive oil and garlic in a pan over a low heat for a few mins; the garlic should be softened but not browned. Remove from the heat and mix in the butter and lemon zest until smooth. Leave to cool, then stir in the chives and thyme.

5. Toast the ciabatta slices, and top each with a spoonful of garlic butter. Serve with the soup, drizzled with the remaining cream, and some black pepper.

The Ancient Oaks of England

Around sixty years ago a Forestry Commission forester called Alan Mitchell started measuring trees as part of his work on plantations of conifers. His work also included selecting the best trees to take seed from for future plantations. Many of these were on the big estates where planting trees from around the world had been a status symbol since Elizabethan times. Alan was also a fanatical collector of data so he started measuring trees and kept a card index. When he died in 1995 he had over 100,000 records.

By then the idea of 'Champion Trees' was catching on and the tallest oak (or redwood) in Britain and Ireland generated local interest in the tallest oak or redwood in Kent or any other county.

A charity was set up called the Tree Register and it now has over 200,000 records and much of the data is online, www.treeregister.org. Needless to say the Europeans have joined in with this typically British enthusiasm and there is a European Champion Tree Forum.

All this is a lead in to say that we went to their annual conference, this year in Kew Gardens, last September. One of the speakers told us that Britain has more ancient oaks than the rest of Europe put together and since retiring from Kew he has now devoted his life to recording the British ancient oaks. To qualify, the trunk has to be over 6m circumference at about 1.5m above ground level.

This got me thinking about the Parish's large oak about a third of the way up Church Road and on the right, the one with the dead branches sticking up out of the leafy crown. I wrote a short note on it for Malherbe Monthly a few years ago but did not think about it any more.

This time we walked up the hill and put the tape round it and it came to 7.0 m circumference, 6.4 m at its narrowest point a bit below this. It is an ancient oak.

Checking on the website www.herbaria.plants.ox.ac.uk/ancientoaksofengland the tree is there. It was measured in 2006 in another project but the location and trunk circumference are both wrong so I will get it corrected.

Our oak is a pollard, meaning that the trunk was cut off at about 6 to 8 feet (an ancient practice so I will use feet) and the new shoots would be out of the reach of grazing cattle. Pollarded willows were common along rivers and the shoots were cut regularly for basket making. Pollarded oaks are quite rare and ours probably marked an ancient boundary, in this case almost certainly.

Why do Village Post Offices/shops close down?

Over the years many villages have lost many or all of their facilities, so I thought I would briefly try to answer the question why as far as post offices are concerned.

One thing I think it is important for the public to know is that postmasters do not receive a salary - they are agents rather than employees. Their remuneration depends on the amount of business they do and so this could be well below the minimum wage. Over the years the Post Office has lost trade in various areas. For example, with the advent of emails the number of letters sent nowadays is much fewer.

On the shop side, with supermarkets and home deliveries, the vast majority of people use their village shop very little. Not only does less trade mean less money coming in, but there are big problems of stock going out of date etc.

I think most village shopkeepers have what might be described as a social conscience - they believe what they are doing is for the good of the community. For example they see the shop as a social meeting place rather than just a commercial venture. Some continue running their shop until ill health or other personal circumstances make it impossible or very difficult to continue.

Wishing you a Happy New Year

Village Hall News

www.graftygreenvillagehall.co.uk

As Christmas disappears over our shoulders once again and we look towards the longer days of Spring, you'll be asking "what will the village hall be offering to brighten up the drab early months?" Well (surprise, surprise!) I have the answer: We are offering a communal Pancake Day!

Yes, in a new venture for the village, we invite you to drop in at the Hall any time between 4.30 and 6.30 on Tuesday 13th February for freshly cooked pancakes (sweet or savoury - or why not both?) and a chat with other hungry village folk.

Who knows, there could even be a pancake tossing competition or a pancake race for those who want to enjoy themselves even more. We don't really know what will happen - we've never done it before. So be amongst the first to sample a new slice of conviviality and fun!

There's no ticket to buy, no seat to reserve, just drift in. It's a family affair, so all ages are welcome. There's no entertainment - save what we cook up for ourselves - it's just a relaxed get-together over traditional Shrove Tuesday fare.

We hope as many of you as possible will drop by and make the occasion sizzle!

The following month we will have another of our famed 'themed' meals. We're not quite settled on a date yet (or indeed a theme!) but do look out in next month's magazine for these details. Something exciting will definitely happen on either the 17th or 24th March! So, you know what to do: pencil in the event for both dates and keep them free if you can.

Finally, a few Village Calendars are still available for sale at the village shop. So if you have nowhere yet to write in the dates of our 2018 events, there's your answer!

A happy new year to you all,

Richard Pilborough, Hall Committee Chairman

AGM & a Talk on Hedge Laying - There will be a short AGM at the beginning of our first meeting on January 9th at 7.30 in the Village Hall. This will be followed by a talk on hedge laying by Phil Piddle.

Tip of the Month - Start winter digging before Christmas, particularly on heavy clay soils, so the weather can break down the soil before spring arrives. This will make preparing seed beds easier. Prune deciduous trees and shrubs, remove and shred pruned material. Clean moss and lichen from paths and treat timber fences and furniture with preservatives on dry days. Most important to feed birds in cold weather and provide drinking water.

Happy New Year from Helen Whately MP

So much has happened in 2017 at such a pace, I feel I've hardly had a chance to reflect. The most important moment for me was being re-elected in June, with an increased majority. It's an honour to represent this constituency and I'm delighted that people have put their trust in me again.

Since the election Brexit has dominated the headlines, but as well as pushing for the best deal for Kent I've been getting on with my campaigns for a new hospital and a medical school, better roads and infrastructure, a good school place for every child, care for people with mental health problems and a seasonal workers scheme for farmers.

One of the big lessons from this summer is that we need to do more for young people. For people in their 30s as their careers develop, for people in their 20s as they set out in the world of work, for teenagers wondering what life will hold, and for smaller children like mine still dreaming of being ballerinas and footballers. So I was glad that the Budget included investment in technology, infrastructure and skills, including an extra £2.3 billion in research and development, £385 million in 5G and full-fibre broadband, and support for maths and science teaching. We have to give younger generations the skills needed for the jobs of tomorrow, and make sure the economy develops to provide those jobs.

As well as jobs, we desperately need more affordable homes. I hope the abolition of stamp duty for first-time buyers for properties under £300,000 will help people in this area – where prices are high – get on the ladder. And the Government has committed to making sure 300,000 new homes a year are built. But new housing must be in the right places and accompanied by appropriate investment in infrastructure. Ever since I was elected I have done everything I can to make the voice of local people heard in the planning process, and in particular I have spoken out against development at Junction 8.

The housing targets for Maidstone and Swale are already high and local roads are under enormous pressure, with congestion becoming the norm rather than the exception. Thousands more houses will mean more demand for healthcare and school places and many more cars on the road. So we need investment in infrastructure – like a potential Leeds-Langley relief road and an overhaul of Brenley Corner – and in public services.

The Government recognises this, and recently announced an extra £1.3 billion for schools. Local schools are getting a 6.4% funding boost – that's a total of £2.7 million more than they would have received under the old funding system. Every secondary school will receive at least £4,600 per pupil next year and £4,800 in 2019-20. High-needs funding for the most vulnerable children is also going up, and there's support for rural schools. I was delighted to be appointed as Parliamentary Private Secretary to Education Secretary Justine Greening, and in this role I have had the opportunity to be involved in conversations about education at a national level.

There have also been positive developments in the campaign for a new hospital in Canterbury and a medical school for Kent. After numerous public meetings, marches, lobbying sessions with ministers, a debate in Parliament, delivering a petition to Downing Street and handing a letter in person to Jeremy Hunt, the NHS is finally consulting on a proposal for a new hospital. I have always said that the NHS should consider a vision for healthcare in East Kent with an excellent specialist hospital in the centre. This option is now on the table. That wasn't the case a few months ago. There's still a long way to go before the final decision is made and whatever the outcome, patients must come first.

One reason local hospitals are struggling is that they can't recruit enough doctors. That's why I'm campaigning for a medical school, to train the doctors of the future locally. I recently joined forces with 15 other MPs from across the county, and across parties, to support Canterbury Christ Church and the University of Kent's joint bid to establish a medical school.

On roads, as well as tackling traffic we need to make sure there is no return to the chaos we saw two summers ago when the M20 was closed for weeks for Operation Stack. I am disappointed that plans for a lorry holding area have been delayed, however I have always said that the key is to make sure traffic can continue to flow in both directions on the M20 when Operation Stack is in place. Highways England are now proposing to hold lorries in the middle of the motorway using mobile barriers, while allowing traffic to continue to travel in both directions. This will be a temporary solution, and we still need a proper alternative to Operation Stack. The Government is now getting straight on with trying to get a lorry park approved through the normal planning process. As part of this it is broadening its scope and thinking of ways to address the broader problems of fly-parking and the potential impact of Brexit – as well as Operation Stack.

As well as increasing the number of lorry parking spaces in the County, we need tougher rules to make sure drivers park in the right places. I want to see a ban on lorries in lay-bys and I'm pleased that Kent County Council recently started clamping illegally parked trucks after the first offence. Drivers have to pay £250 to have the clamps removed. If this pilot scheme is successful I hope it will be rolled out across the County.

This is also a challenging time for local fruit farmers. We're lucky to grow some of the best strawberries, raspberries, apples and cherries in the world here in Kent, but farmers tell me they are struggling to recruit the workers they need. It's getting harder to attract seasonal workers from across the EU, and the number of local people looking for work is far too low to meet the labour needs of fruit farms. I've been campaigning along with other MPs with fruit farms in their constituencies for the Government to re-start a Seasonal Agricultural Workers Scheme, which is what we had before EU enlargement to provide farms with enough workers.

Nationally, I'm campaigning for better support for people with mental health problems. The more we speak about mental health—privately, publicly and in Parliament—the more we wear away the stigma that surrounds it. As chair of the all-party group on mental health, I often speak to service users, professionals and campaigners from organisations such as Rethink Mental Illness, Mind and the Royal College of Psychiatrists. They tell me there has never been a better time to be a mental health campaigner. We have the five year forward view for mental health, a truly comprehensive and widely supported strategy to improve mental health care; a Prime Minister who is committed to fighting the injustice of inadequate treatment; and a Government which is spending record amounts on improving mental health care. We're already seeing the results locally where East Kent University NHS Trust is receiving nearly £500,000 to make specialist psychiatric liaison services available in A&E and inpatient wards. But there's more to do, and I will keep on working to make sure mental health conditions are treated just as seriously as physical illnesses.

Do keep on contacting me with your concerns and views, whether in writing, by phone or by coming to one of my surgeries. I'm looking forward to spending Christmas eating far too much and spending time with my family.

I wish everyone in Faversham and Mid Kent a very happy new year!

BT Superfast broadband has, at last, been made available in Grafty Green, we have been waiting for over 3 years since the Make Kent Faster Campaign. What do you need to do to get it.

Step 1: Use the fibre checker to see if you can get fibre broadband at your home address. <https://www.products.bt.com/broadband/availability>

Most of the time all you'll need is your landline number. Or you can put in your postcode and address.

Step 2: If fibre's available, your next step is to choose the company you'd like to supply your broadband. To see what deals are available go to uSwitch.com and look for Top 10 super-fast broadband deals.

OR: If you already have broadband you should be offered deals from your existing provider. Note: currently BT have a special offer until 15th January.

Beware, when you order your superfast broadband, the provider will combine your existing package and add the superfast offers to that, so you might want to review this at the same.

Benefits of having Superfast broadband means guaranteed download speed of up to 70mbps (Megabits per second) and upload speeds will be offered. See an example of what can be achieved.

Good News! We predict your download speed will now be between 34-45 Mbps and your predicted upload speed will be between 6-8.9 Mbps

Guaranteed speed

Your guaranteed minimum line speed is 31 Mbps. If it falls below this, BT will always try to restore your speed. If your actual line speed remains below this speed you have the right to end your broadband contract without having to pay early termination charges.

Some people in the village have said they are getting up to 52mbps download speed. The speed you are offered has many dependencies, eg. your computer equipment and how near you are to the Openreach Green Street Cabinet.

You may wish to consider if Standard broadband is fast enough for you.

An up to 17Mb broadband package is what is known as standard broadband. It is the cheapest and most widely available option for broadband – and also the slowest. The average speed you are likely to receive on a 17Mb connection is around 8Mb. This is fine if you live in a small household and consider yourself a casual internet user who browses and shops online, uses email and social media, and maybe downloads the occasional show on BBC iPlayer. However, if you have more than a couple of devices connected at once, it may struggle.

If you need any help, please visit the Egerton Telecottage on Saturday morning between 10am and 12noon <http://www.egerton-kent.co.uk/telecottage>. Advice is free and there is always someone there to help you. If you would like any topics covered in this magazine please email me at carolhulm@gmail.com

January Music notes

January is in all respects an anticlimax from Christmas and the music scene conforms to this picture. Many music groups are immersed in a new regime of rehearsals following a Christmas concert, and certainly most singers are resting their voices after an excess of carols. Nevertheless I have been able to find some concerts for you to enjoy:

- Saturday 6th January, 7.30pm at The United Reformed Church, Week St., Maidstone: In the last of the Christmas festivities, Maidstone Choral Union present a 12th Night Concert. More mulled wine & mince pies afterwards! Free entry, with a retiring collection. No tickets required.
- Sunday 14th January, 2.30pm at Sutton Valence School, the Sutton Valence Music Society have arranged a concert by. Alasdair Beatson, piano, and John Myerscough, cello. Programme includes works by Brahms, Fauré, and Beethoven. Tickets at the door or contact 01622 863002.
- Saturday 27th January, Maidstone Singers are holding a "come and sing" event with Haydn's Nelson Mass as the subject. Held at St. Faith's church, Station Rd, Maidstone ME14 1LH, applications are welcome from all singers – forms from MS website or from choir members. The day will end with a concert performance at 6.30pm – tickets 01622 737916 or at the door.
- Saturday 3rd February, 7.30pm at Mote Hall, Maidstone, Maidstone Symphony Orchestra's concert includes Elgar's Cello Concerto featuring Sheku Kanneh-Mason (BBC Young Musician 2016) and Dvořák's Symphony No.9 "From the New World". Tickets 033 616 3366(booking fee applies) or at the door.

Unfortunately, as I write the radio and TV information for January 2018 is not yet available, and rumour has it that the New Year's Day concert from Vienna, won't be broadcast on BBC TV this time- I recommend you keep an eye on programme news nearer the time.

Brian Hardy

The Ulcombe Friendship Club is meeting in Ulcombe Village Hall on Thursday 25 January at 2pm. There will be a showing of the 'feel good' film, Slumdog Millionaire.

This will be followed by a cup of tea and cake and then a brief AGM to decide the future of the Club. All welcome. New potential members will be particularly welcome

Christian Message January 2018

A New Year's Resolution: Love and be nice

Quite often when I am studying for an essay, address or article, I come across words, phrases or even whole passages that I don't understand, that challenge me and result in me having to slowly unpick the text bit by bit. However learned the words may be, however, many Biblical messages boil down to one phrase, 'be nice', or even one word, 'love'. Such simple concepts but so much more complex to execute.

But what an exciting challenge for 2018!

When your mother-in-law buys you socks for the fifth birthday running, love her and be nice. When your husband comes home late or forgets your anniversary, love him and be nice. When you feel that people are talking about you or spreading unkind gossip behind your back, love them and be nice. It's not hard to smile and gratefully receive a ghastly, but well-intentioned, present but It is very hard to forgive, when being spoken about unkindly.

Love is not passive. Love means making that extra journey to a meeting on a cold night when you want to stay indoors and watch television. Love means finding time to visit a friend on your way home, when feeling exhausted after a long day at work. Love means investing thought, prayer and action into repairing difficult relationships.

If you want to slim, run a marathon or give up smoking, as a new year's resolution, that's really commendable and you should go ahead, but I suggest that the biggest challenge of all lies in one simple command: "that you love one another as I have loved you" (John 13:34). After all, 39 books of the Old Testament and 27 books of the New Testament were written about the one true God, who loves us all so much that he sacrificed his only son in order that our sins may be forgiven and that we may be free to love him and one another.

If we made it our new year's resolution to ask God into our lives, 'love and be nice', what an impact that would have! Challenging maybe, but with the help of the Holy Spirit, exciting, fulfilling and joyful too, and with the extra promise of an eternal reward greater than any earthly gain.
