

For immediate release

Battle Town Council announces Virtual Battle in Bloom for 2021

Battle Town Council has announced that its annual Battle in Bloom festival will be held virtually this year with a slightly new format.

Residents can share their fantastic photos of their gardens, window boxes, flowers, allotments or a favourite green space and these will be published on the Council's virtual gallery and shared across the Council's social media.

The festival will take place from August until the end of September and is open to everyone living in Battle and the surrounding area.

If you'd like to take part then please email your photo to [], or alternatively drop into the Almonry.

The festival is open to everyone living or working locally, free to enter, and will be a great way to promote Battle's green-side.

Cllr Chris Hartley, Vice Chair of External Relations and Town Development, said: 'The format of this year's festival is a little different because of some of the remaining restrictions, but it's a great way to show off our town and our green-fingered residents.'

'Everyone can take part, regardless of the size of your garden, plant pot or whatever else – I would also welcome entries from some of Battle's younger residents. I know that my daughter will be keen to show everyone the sunflower she's grown!'

End

Notes for the Editor: