

Caped crusader!¹ Smiling Camilla looks elegant in a tartan dress and cloak-style jacket as she visits a community workspace in Frome

- The Duchess, 71, visited a local community workspace in Frome called Shed
- She wore a purple and green tartan dress and teamed it with a black cape jacket
- The workspace is for older people to work on practical projects
- Surprised 87-year-old Gerald Franks with an award for a local lunch club

By SARAH FINLEY FOR MAILONLINE

PUBLISHED: 14:19, 30 January 2019 | UPDATED: 15:35, 30 January 2019

The Duchess of Cornwall visited a work space for older people in Frome, Somerset today, wearing a blue and green tartan dress.

Camilla, 71, met locals at a workspace called Shed, a place where older people can come together to work on practical projects with others, such as woodwork.

The Duchess recycled a favourite tartan dress for the outing, pleated from the waist down with buttons on top.

She teamed the look with black heeled and slouchy knee high boots and wore a gold chain bracelet on her left wrist.

The Duchess of Cornwall visited a work space for older people in Frome today, wearing a purple and green tartan dress

¹ <https://www.dailymail.co.uk/femail/article-6648667/The-Duchess-Cornwall-wears-tartan-meet-locals-Frome.html>

• Camilla seemed at ease as she laughed with the locals and they showed her various projects they were working on

The Duchess teamed her long sleeved dress with a black cape styled coat and black leather gloves.

Camilla was there to show her support for the local community project and seemed at ease as she laughed with the locals and they showed her various projects they were working on.

The Shed in Frome has tools and materials, which are donated by the public or local businesses.

- The Shed in Frome has tools and materials, which are donated by the public or local businesses

- The Duchess teamed her long sleeved dress with a black cape styled coat and black leather gloves

- Camilla talks to local members of the Frome Shed, which opened in August 2014, is open to Men and Women, who are over 18

It is also run by its own members, who then decide on projects which will benefit them or the community in Frome.

The Duchess, who attended the workspace solo, spoke to its members about the different projects they were working on.

She also assessed the tools and materials they were using as she joked with them and questioned them on their projects.

Camilla spoke to three members of the Shed - a work space for locals to work on different creative projects

Camilla spoke to three members who attend the local community group which create things for the surrounding area

- One member showed Camilla his latest project as she spoke to him about the local community group

The Frome Shed opened in August 2014, is open to men and women over 18.

The workspace currently has 76 members, and normally around 20 to 25 people attend meetings every week.

Camilla continued her tour of Frome by visiting the The Frome medical centre and the District Day Centre Lunch Club.

Her Royal Highness met some of the Couch to 5k runners who are ready to embark on their run

Camilla shook hands with Mrs Anne Maw who she met while visiting Frome Medical Centre

The Duchess of Cornwall met members of the Talking Caf   who chatted to her over a cup of coffee

Camilla met locals at Frome Medical Centre and spoke to them while they enjoyed a cup of coffee at the cafe

She spoke to members at the medical centre, some of which were training for a Couch to 5k run and were ready to embark on their training such as Camilla got there.

Taking off her cape she sat down to speak to other members over a cup of tea in the centre's Talking Cafe.

Later on in the day Camilla met and present an award to Gerald Franks who set up The Frome and District Day Centre Lunch Club in 2000.

Camilla, deep in conversation with members, while they shared a cup of coffee at Frome Medical centre

Camilla spoke to Gerald Franks who set up The Frome and District Day Centre Lunch Club in 2000
 Arriving later at the Frome and District Day Centre Lunch Club she surprised 87-year-old Gerald Franks with an award for setting up the Lunch Club in 2000.

Its main purpose is to give hot meals and friendship to the elderly that can no longer cook or look after themselves.

Camilla was pictured handing Gerald a glass trophy and congratulating him for the work he does in the community.

Gerald set up the lunch club to help people suffering from loneliness, but had not expected an award for his efforts.

Gerald speaking to the Duchess of Cornwall today: he set up the lunch club to help people suffering from loneliness, but had not expected an award for his efforts

Camilla presented an award to Gerald Franks who set up The Frome and District Day Centre Lunch Club in 2000

He told Somerset Live newspaper: 'For some people it's the only hot meal they get a week.

'It's marvellous (to collect the award). She said well done on the good work. It was such a surprise.'

The Duchess has had a busy start to the year, last week she visited North Swindon Library, where she read to a group of school children as part of her work as a patron of the National Literacy Trust.

Gerald

He

spoke to the Duchess after getting his award.

said: 'It's marvellous (to collect the award). She said well done on the good work. It was such a surprise'

Arriving later at the Frome and District Day Centre Lunch Club she surprised 87-year-old Gerald Franks with an award for setting up the Lunch Club in 2000