Letter from the Vicarage

Hello,

Books of hours show that the occupations for the month are harvesting and threshing. Of course now this is done by machines and those of you who have been watching Clarkson's Farm will know that increasingly those machines don't even need human driving or direction! But for centuries for the peasant farmer it was very hard work indeed. All the different processes to get the wheat in the field to the grain for the miller is now done by one or two machines but up until relatively recently for the farmer was the hardest labour of the year at the hottest time of the year. You really earned your daily bread!

As usual there are a clutch of interesting celebrations during the month. You will be fascinated to learn I'm sure that August is National Goat's Cheese month. And while on the subject of food there is the moveable Gregorian feast that is the Ugly Potato Day – I can't find a record of a handsome potato day – and because it's a moveable feast you can pick any day of the month to celebrate your ugly potatoes.

And to go with your potatoes, ugly or beautiful, the 1st Friday of the month is International Beer Day. Do we need a Beer Day? Surely every day is beer day. The 5th is National Underwear Day, presumably not edible, so rejoice in your underwear! But you should probably wear it every day not just the 5th. And of course, as all country men and women know, the 12th is the 'Glorious 12th' when the peace of the countryside is shattered by the sound of guns and sensible peasants, sorry pheasants, keep their heads down.

The 12th is also World Elephant Day – let's face it they would provide a more equal contest for the happy pheasant shooters. I wouldn't want to be a beater! In great contrast the 20th is World Mosquito Day, from the largest land animal to one of the smallest creatures but one that kills more people annually than any other! We finish the month on the 29th with More Herbs less Salt Day, a peculiarly specific celebration!

I have left one remembrance out. On the 1st Sunday of the month it is International Forgiveness Day. If there is one attitude our world could with more of it is forgiveness. From our individual relationships to national leadership and diplomacy the holding on of hurt and grudges is a destructive force. Forgiveness is the first step to restoration, renewal and peace. It is the basis of our relationship with God and it is in this relationship we see forgiveness modelled for us all.

In reaching out to us in the person of Jesus God makes the first move to reconcile us to himself. Forgiveness is the necessary precursor of healing and the making whole of relationships. In addition there is a growing body of opinion among mental health professionals and researchers that the act of forgiveness is also an act of self-healing. It allows the forgiver to move on, it releases them from being trapped in the past. We could clearly do with this in our international relationships but before we start thinking about the global need for forgiveness we could do worse than examine if we need to exercise it a bit more in our own lives.

Stay blessed,

David

P.S. The Diocese have kindly given me a three-month Sabbatical from August to October to do some writing. So there won't be a Letter from me until my return. Enjoy the rest of the summer (and then autumn).

Family BBQ

This year, the Family Barbeque will be held on Friday 24th July 6-9pm in the Orchard (weather permitting) – all welcome with free entry. The last time I looked the forecast was for a sunny day so come along, play games, try out our excellent burgers and have a drink at the bar and chill.

The next Film Night will be ‘The Roses’ on Friday 18th September. It stars Benedict Cumberbatch and Olivia Colman, it has received very good reviews and is based on a novel – The Wars of the Roses (1981) by Warren Adler. ‘Life seems easy for a picture-perfect couple Ivy and Theo Rose: successful careers, a loving marriage, great kids. But beneath the façade of their supposedly ideal life, a storm is brewing. As Theo's career nose-dives while Ivy's own ambitions take off, a tinderbox of fierce competition and hidden resentment ignites in this wonderfully wry, dark comedy.’ Entrance - cash only, Adults £5, under 18s £3 tea, coffee & cake - cash only. Bar open - cash or card

Holton News

After a bit of a wet, June bit back with another wave of heat which rolled over into July and is still trundling on as this is being written. As a result everything is dry, lawns are looking parched, leaves are falling early, schoolkids are excused uniforms and seem to be in PE kit. Thames water keep sending notices about reporting leaks but don't always seem to do much about fixing them. They implore us not to use hosepipes but there is no hosepipe ban, unlike other areas of the country. It has now reached the stage where some rain would be very nice please. Perhaps a minister for drought might help?

The schools are going to break up soon and folk will be leaving on holiday. Before they do however, I think it is time to give thanks to all the organisers and doers in the village. Those posters don't magic themselves onto the billboards, the arts week doesn't self-start and the Bring and Take mini market does not happen by itself. Then there is what I consider the most difficult job in the village viz – the Parish Council. This is a tough one especially now the developers at Brooks are gearing up to make a start. Spare a thought for these good people and if you are one of them take a bow.

Because of family commitments I was not able to attend the Song Sung Blue film night, but I have it on good authority that it was a good one. My source even liked the introductory music video of a younger Rod Stewart with Ronnie Wood of the Stones on guitar! The next one will be a cracker too (The Roses) so don't miss it. Details in the Village Hall piece.

The Parish Council has recently introduced a WhatsApp group for Holton news updates.

Here is the QR code again, just I case you missed it last month:

Churchyard Extension (Wildflower grassland)

The plan is to cut the area and leave the plants to drop their seed before raking up. This should be done sometime late August/early September. The call will go out for volunteers to rake up and gather the cuttings a couple of days after the mowing, all according to the weather conditions at the time. A call will go out on the Holton News WhatsApp for volunteer rakers when the time comes. So sign up if you want to join in the fun!!

Holton Cock & Bull

A few examples where logic seems to have gone slightly astray:

Quite a while ago, a major hotel chain in the UK introduced non-smoking rooms for the benefit of their visitors. These were distinguished from other rooms by the 'No Smoking' sign placed in the ashtray.

A couple attending the BBC's 'Antiques Roadshow' queued for 2 hours to have a silver vase examined and valued. On opening the box they had brought with them they were somewhat taken aback to find that it contained a hibernating tortoise. A living fossil maybe?

And this must have happened on 1st April. Having encountered a large hole in the road a driver decided to report it to the local police. She was somewhat bemused when, after stating that she had found a hole in the road, she was referred to the lost property department.

Items which can be accepted by Rotary as required by TFSR are as follows:

- Electric and manual sewing machines
- Hand tools: screwdrivers, socket sets, spanners, bench vices, saws, hacksaws and planes
- 240V electric hand tools produced.

Holton & Waterperry WI

On 7th July we all enjoyed an extremely pleasant, sunny evening in Holton orchard for our garden meeting. Savoury food made by members and berries and cream provided by the committee ensured we had a tasty and plentiful supply of delicious food. Stella, our ex president, entertained us with a few games and a very jolly reading.

Our last walk was by Christchurch meadow with tea in Oxford and our next walk is from Tiddington to Waterperry. Always much enjoyed. We were reminded about our outing on 6th August to the Old Rectory Gardens, Albury as well as more craft afternoons with patchwork and secondly with block printing. Plans are afoot for more interesting events including a fused glass workshop. We will also be at Holton BBQ on 24th July.

We would like to encourage more Waterperry ladies to join us (We are, after all, Holton and Waterperry WI). Many of our members came independently to the open gardens afternoon and enjoyed meeting friendly Waterperry garden owners. We hope that the contribution each month to the HW&W magazine will inform any prospective members. We are a small but friendly group. Maybe you would care to join us for our September 1st meeting as we just have our outing in August.

Details of September's meeting in next month's magazine.

Meanwhile do all enjoy the summer and the light evenings.

Waterperry News

Waterperry Open Gardens

Back in the day Miss Havergal sponsored a cup for 'Most Complete Village Garden'. It's on display in the Museum of Rural Life. These days we weren't in competition as six gardens opened to villagers and the public on 20th June. We had 60 visitors looking at gardens which you might think would all be quite similar - the same weather and soil but in fact are all quite different.

Dawn and Paul by the Estate gates have an exuberant cottage garden incorporating many plants from her 5 star trade stand for her sculpture dawnconn.com at the RHS Chelsea Flower Show.

Frances, their neighbour, had a plant sale ably helped by daughter Bethan and by Sue. Visitors were most impressed by how much variety was in her garden and her knowledge of the plants - especially her Salvias.

Next door, tucked away, Jacqueline has a large lawn with well placed benches, pots and island beds. A hidden oasis.

Susie and John at Corner Cottage hosted teas with help from Jacqui and Patrick as well as from John's daughter Rachel. We are very grateful to many villagers who made cakes and also to The Secret Garden, a new restaurant in Great Haseley, who donated two huge coffee and walnut cakes.

Next door to them Lesley and Alex have a delightful Mediterranean themed garden with gravel and raised beds.

Finally by the village pear trees Helen and Richard at No 2 have a garden with formal herbaceous borders and a pond which is teeming with life and wild orchids in their lawn. They held a plant sale on the day and for the week after which was a tremendous fund raiser.

As an extra Chris gave a tour of the Waterperry Orchard which was much enjoyed especially as hares were seen. He, Zena and daughter Charlotte led the welcome operation at the Estate gates.

Thank you to the many who donated plants; flowers, shrubs and vegetables. Richard potted on many seedlings from Chris at Waterperry Common. Those vegetables of his that weren't sold were donated to the Wheatley Allotments who branded them 'brassica roulette' and 'cauliflower chaos' as they came without labels! The remaining plants went to the Horspath Primary School fete.

We were joined by Lilian Shaw 07870 140743 who exhibited stained glass made locally and Ed Murray whose workshop is on the Waterperry Estate showed his bronze sculptures edwardmurraysculpture.com and had collage cards from Jayne, Dawn's friend jayneward.co.uk.

A big thanks to the Waterperry Estate who lent tables, chairs, tea urns and allowed use of their loos and parking. The organisers were delighted, if a little surprised that absolutely no one parked on any verges or even on the lane!

Incredibly we raised nearly £1,400, after expenses, which will go towards church repairs. Thank you to everyone who got involved. We've had amazing feedback from visitors who enjoyed the afternoon exploring hidden Waterperry and our hospitality. This won't be an annual event but who knows we might do it again?

Waterstock News

Tales of the Riverbank (and other Waterstock news)

All along the backwater,

Through the rushes tall,

Ducks are a-dabbling,

Up tails all!

Ducks' tails, drakes' tails,

Yellow feet a-quiver,

Yellow bills all out of sight

Busy in the river!

(from The Wind in the Willows)

Oh my goodness no sooner has all the excitement of cameras and lights and people hiding in tents passed before She Who Brings the Crumbs is back again with her mobile thingy taking pictures of my ducklings - a brood of eleven! The gossip amidst the river and bank folk is that hedgehogs are being royally treated in the middle of the village and that an extra large hog is regularly spotted headed into Gill's garden. At the top of the village a baby leveret has been frequently seen in the lane near the sewage plant and four baby green woodpeckers have hatched in Caroline's garden. I am alright for water myself as I live on the river but don't forget to put water out for the hungry hedgehogs and other land-lubbing wildlife.

I heard from the fox that humans are refreshing their defibrillator skills in a course specially organised by Gill. Duckfibrillator must be next. Training is going to take place in the church which is looking all spruced up and clean thanks to many village volunteers. Loads of people responded to the survey about the church and I eagerly await the results – a lifestream of the river perhaps?

I heard from Michael that, twenty-five years ago (when I wasn't even an egg) the Bishop of Oxford came to Waterstock in June. Richard Harries recently died at the age of almost 90 but when he visited he came in full bishops' garb and took a service in the church.

I am looking forward to the bridge and footpath being busy at the Ride and Stride on 12th September. It started in 1986 and has been organised in Waterstock since the beginning by Michael Tyce who has been a star at encouraging participants to visit as many Oxford Churches as possible, on foot or by bicycle, and to raise sponsorship working with the Oxford Historic Churches Trust (OHCT). After 40 years of commitment in the post Michael is handing over the baton to Sini who has been raising money for the cause for years. The very first riders those four decades ago were Sarah Tyce and Gillian Webb raising £46.95! The OHCT keeps 50% of the funds raised each year and the other 50% is for our church. The OHCT are most supportive of us, having donated funds for repairs to our church and the new replacement window. Don't forget to look out for me and my entourage if you are cycling or walking between Waterstock and Waterperry.

Another brilliant thing coming up is Helen MacRitchie's exhibition of her textile artwork at the Old Fire Station Gallery Henley-on-Thames RG9 2AG from 10-25 August. 'Life Traces' features hangings and sculptures inspired by personal histories and Oxfordshire with reference to another Oxfordshire artist the potter Debbie Page. There is an opening night on Friday 14th August with fizz and nibbles, and all are welcome. I think my river connects to the Thames so you might see me there! There are also some workshops during the exhibition – see Helen for details.

Luckily for me my duck ears are better under than out of water but even I can hear that drumming practice at the end of the village has paused and can now be heard in various bands in Glasgow. Meanwhile other occupants of HBF have been rowing on the Cam and the Isis, passing exams, travelling to Poland and generally making the most of the sunshine.

Keep dabbling
