The Rector's Pint

In May I have no doubt that many of us will be watching the coronation of King Charles III. There will be community events, and we will be offering appropriate prayers across the Benefice. Many of us will not be old enough to remember the coronation of Queen Elizabeth 11, on 2 June 1953 and so this will be a significant event. We wish the new King well.

My Pint in April was deliberately serious, Good Friday is a serious subject. This is therefore offered as a contrast. It's my account of the Palm Sunday service at St Peter's in Great Haseley.

A reflection on Palm Sunday, or the curious things we sometimes do in Church.

And it came to pass, on the Sunday of the Palms, that the Rector didst have his arm truly twisted, being persuaded to play the part of the Lord riding in triumph unto Jerusalem, the part of the City being taketh by the ancient Church building, and the cheering crowds by the thirty or so in the congregation who deemest to turn up.

At the appointed time, the Rector leaveth the building to find his steed. And lo, he didst see not a four-legged beast of burden but a two-wheeled machine, with an large engine. In truth, he knoweth exactly where to look, having ridden it there himself earlier.

A Bonneville it was, it being a Triumph. He waiteth for the sign, one of the disciples, that part being played by a churchwarden, whose thumb pointeth upwards. And so the Rector rideth unto Jerusalem, or rather the Church, in triumph, and also on Triumph.

The people, being greatly excited didst cheer and cry and didst also wave Cyprus branches, Palm branches being not available in this part of South Oxfordshire. And they didst also take out their iphones to record this thing before them.

And the Rector rideth to the front, and he crasheth not, and was exceeding joyful, especially as no-one crieth out, "Oi, hast thou truly done an health and safety risk assessment for this thing we see? If thou hast not, verily I say unto thee thou shalt truly cop it with the Archdeacon".

And all being well, and nothing having gone wrong, the Rector didst leave the Church on his steed, after ritual feasting on coffee and cake, and taketh him his churchwarden riding on the back, for a brisk spin. She turneth out to be a complete speed freak, as at every pause she asketh, "how fast didst we go?" Upon hearing the answer, and despite the Rector being once or twice a little liberal with the speed, she would reply "wast that all?"

In the real story, the excitement was far greater and the noise far louder. Five days later, the noise and shouting turned into something terrifying and ugly, and then on the third day after that, on the Sunday we now call Easter, white lilies bloomed around an empty tomb. He is risen.

Barbara and Hazel

Great Milton in Conversation

On 20th April the centre aisle pews of St Mary's Church were filled to hear an extremely insightful conversation between Dr Charlie Lee-Potter and Professor Anthony Harnden. As Deputy Chairman of the Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation and GMC Council Member, Professor Harnden was obviously at the very centre of discussions relating to the pandemic as well as the focus of significant media attention. The audience were privileged to learn about theories of the origin of the pandemic, for example, the responses and development of the individual vaccines as well of personal anecdotes of different interviews and high level meetings. The hourlong wide-ranging discussion included the opportunity for questions from the floor.

This was the first of a series of events to be held over the next year to raise funds for a kitchen and toilet at St Mary's. Several different options are being considered to bring forward the inclusion of these facilities since last October's Open Day. The Church has also been successful in obtaining more grants. More information should be available at the Project Stall at the Fete on 10th June. Please call by!

Last month I commented on the old weather sayings March "In Like a Lion out Like a Lamb" or "In like a Lamb out like a Lion" I think that the former would be about correct although the wind was not that strong on the 31st March it rained as though it had never done before. This late March and early April rain was a start to replace the deficit in February being the wettest March for some time. Then we had those wonderful days for the start of Easter weekend which was a wonderful respite, and must have helped the crops, all of which have come through winter well, except perhaps the Rape having suffered from Pigeon damage, it is interesting that certain crops have suffered badly and others that can be in the next field seem untouched we seem to be unfortunate in that we seem to be the wrong side of the fence. Just hope it can recover now.

It has been noticeable after the deluges of early April how dry the surface of the land is, I would like to think that this is due to a change in our policy of not cultivating and not moving the soil so much, leaving the natural structure, which in turn allows for better drainage. Modern Agriculture is often criticised for the use of artificial fertiliser (bag muck), which when applied only affects the top few inches. If this is the case how is it that this is the cause of nutrients in rivers through leaching, given that now we have a better soil structure the root system should encourage a better root system, which as a result should reduce this leaching. As an additional aid to enhancing the soil structure we have just had some 800 tonnes of compost delivered, this is from the brown bin collection, and is material we had to stop delivery of due to it being contaminated with plastic, on first inspection this seemed to be almost free of such contamination, however having spread some we find there is still some, so maybe we will have to stop this product again, pity as it is all part of the story. Interestingly this material is closely regulated with every load that is delivered weighed then, each spreader load is also weighed so that the exact amount is applied to a specific area of land, pity the plastic is not monitored as well. It illustrates how careful we should be when we dispose our waste, as when it gets into garden waste it is almost impossible to remove.

This spring seems all at sixes and sevens this year, the Blackthorn is late and, Blackthorn winter seemed only to be the odd day, it seems some Blackthorn was still in bud at the same time as the May (Hawthorne) which comes out 2nd or 3rd week in April this indicates that spring is both late and early, all very confusing. Still it is spring and the birds are doing their thing despite of other conditions, and whenever we walk through a field we are deafened by Larks arising, as well as ground nesting birds, so all aspects drive us to believe summer and nice warm balmy days are just around the corner, let's hope so!.

I hope my colleagues who grow Turnips have some good crops in order to stop us all starving. Our Secretary of state's disdainful attitude towards, not only UK's farming industry's challenges but, also the very real and present issue of the nation's food security, should have come as a surprise. But alas, I am not at all surprised nor, I doubt anyone else in our industry, sadly we have come to expect this sort of lack of understanding from career politicians, a point very well made recently by an agricultural correspondent. They seem to have completely ignored our concern over this security when making trade deals with other countries, also ignoring the restrictions they have imposed, (note my comments on compost application) sometimes correctly, on how we produce our food.

I am constantly commenting on rights of way and the effects on nature, so have a few more points to make on the subject, as a result of a few points that have been made by others recently. For a start a comparison has been made as to why we cannot adopt a similar view as Norway on the right to roam anywhere well, Norway has about 12 people per square Kilometre whereas we have something like 40, that I think says it all. The RSPCA has confirmed a point that I have made many times before, this being that we should not assume it ok to let our dogs roam off the lead, however good or harmless they maybe, because they are doing no harm, or would not chase animals, that is not the point as they would and will, given the chance, it is in their nature and, any roaming will disturb nature especially at this time of year. Also indiscriminate walking will also harm plant life all the things we are desperately trying to preserve, we need to keep to footpaths wherever possible.

Please don't forget May 21st is the day of our Tractor run in aid of the Thames Valley Air Ambulance, who rely on events like this and public generosity for all their finances my Just Giving Page is https:justgiving.com/fundraising/charles-peers5. I am somewhat confused by this as it does not always go straight to my website but it is there you may have to scroll down to find me.

The Sheppard Charitable Trust has Funds Available to Distribute!

Does your group arrange activities for others within the parish of Great Milton? Could your organisation do with a financial boost to help it to expand its activities, reach more people? If the answer is yes, The Sheppard Charitable Trust may be in a position to help you. The Trust's benefactor was a local resident, Miss Ellen Katherine Sheppard. Miss Sheppard died in 1906, leaving her property to the Great Milton Men's and Boy's Institute, which was later incorporated The Sheppard Charitable Trust. Funds were invested with the CCLA, and grants made over the past twenty years total more than £138,000.

Beneficiaries include the Great Milton Senior Citizens Club and Neighbours Club who receive annual contributions to help with the cost of providing outings, parties and speakers for monthly meetings, giving vital opportunities for people to meet together and socialise. Younger residents of the village have benefited from the support given to the Athletics Club, and tennis lessons via the Hard Surface Play Area Committee. The school has received help for funding residential trips and improving playground facilities.

St Mary's Church, the Methodist Chapel, Neighbours Hall and the Recreation Ground Committee have received generous contributions to improve and maintain their facilities. Other beneficiaries include the History Society, Toddlers Group, Arts and Crafts Group, Bell Ringers, Great Milton Recycling Group and young people's expedition adventures.

Two years of lock down has enabled to the Trust to build up reserves in the fund – and rather than keeping them in the bank, the Trustees would like to distribute them to causes within the village. The only stipulation is that funds must be used for the benefit of Great Milton residents. If your organisation would welcome help with their costs, such as room hire, activity insurance, equipment etc, please do get in touch.

Please send your applications to Jane Willis at sheppardtrustGM@gmail.com Closing date for applications by Friday 23rd June 2023
