

Andover wins big with £18.3m awarded for new theatre, cultural hub and accelerated town centre redevelopment!

Andover has been awarded £18.3m from round three of the government's Levelling Up Fund (LUF), to build a multi-purpose theatre and cultural hub in the heart of the town.

The new venue will replace The Lights with a larger theatre and space for cultural and creative activities.

The funding allocated to Andover means the council can accelerate the plan to transform the town centre - bringing more businesses, shops and homes into the heart of Andover.

An example of what the new theatre and cultural hub could look like, but it's not a detailed design. That will now be worked up in advance of a planning application.

The masterplan, to which more than 4,000 residents, businesses and stakeholders contributed, will see the creation of the theatre and cultural hub run alongside the development of the Western Avenue Riverside Walk, to which £6.5M of council funds were allocated earlier this year, which included £1m in developer contributions from Hampshire County Council (HCC).

The Western Avenue Riverside Walk development was allocated money earlier this year

The new venue will be situated at the entrance of the Chantry Centre, opposite the Guildhall, and feature a brand-new theatre auditorium, as well as modern spaces to host a variety of events and creative classes that currently take place in The Lights, which it will replace. With Andover bus station and the Chantry Centre car park just a short walk away, it will have High Street shops, cafes and restaurants on the doorstep and with the green backdrop of Riverside Park.

The theatre and cultural hub will transform and revitalise the space, introducing an evening economy, offering more cultural activities and events, and supporting businesses in the town.

Leader of the council, Councillor Phil North, said: "This is absolutely amazing news for Andover and will be transformational for the town - enabling us to accelerate the masterplan. It's the result of a lot of hard work in putting our bid together and making the case with central government. My huge thanks to our Member of Parliament, Kit Malthouse, who led the charge in Westminster. We wouldn't have got the money without his strong advocacy and unwavering desire to get it over the line.

"Our efforts in developing a cultural programme of events and progressing with other aspects of our town's redevelopment clearly show that Andover is a place that is ready to move forward. We have a huge amount of experience in running a successful theatre with creative spaces, and the new venue in the centre of town will become an invaluable asset for the local community."

Kit Malthouse MP said: "I was so enthusiastic about the council's brilliant masterplan that I was determined to do everything I could to get their bid over the line, and I'm so pleased that Andover has won this massive amount of money. It will make a huge difference to our town and is exactly the catalyst we need to start the much-needed reinvention of Andover town centre. Phil North and his team have shown exceptional leadership and vision, and they really deserve this win."

Test Valley's Big Band Buffet strikes the right notes

"Lovely people, lovely food and lovely music. I spoke to everyone on all the stalls so learned a lot, and everyone was so helpful, thank you." is how one attendee from Andover described the Big Band Buffet, held at Test Valley School in Stockbridge, which has once again proved to be a major hit with residents.

The purpose of the annual event is to support older and vulnerable people in the community to stay safe and well, whilst enjoying themselves and reducing the risks of isolation this winter.

The money was used by Chapel Arts Studios (CAS), alongside Arts Council funding, towards running art workshops with families from across the borough.

Demand responsive transport service survey

Unity are trying to determine the level of demand for a fully 'on demand transport service' for the community, using two 16-seat minibuses. Both would be fully wheelchair accessible.

It would work very much like an Uber minibus service that will pick you up and drop off multiple people at a time, all within or close to the Test Valley area, People would be able to book in advance or on the same day and the specialised software would organise the most effective route for the vehicle and update the passenger on their collection time.

We would have one bus covering the south of the Test Valley and one in the North with the cut-off being probably Kings Somborne. They would both run between the hours of 8.30 and 5pm Monday to Friday

If you would like to take part in the survey, please visit the web site below or contact Unity on the phone number below.
