

Mojo Preachers are a five piece band who started life playing blues. As their original songs have now become the major part of their performance their style has evolved to include influences from American West Coast and Deep South (Steely Dan, Little Feat) as well as the best of blues (Beth Hart, Jo Harmon).

Dave Thomas is entering the 50th year of his professional career and is the guitarist and bandleader of choice for many of the big blues names visiting from the U.S. He also has a number of critically acclaimed albums in his own right that are as varied as they are classy. If you have an interest in blues music that has a clear lineage from its 1950's and 60's roots you owe it to yourself to check Dave out.

Dove and Boweevil! Old enough to be bitter and young enough to be sweet. Their infectious camaraderie lights up any stage with music that entwines the twisted roots of Americana and blues. Rip-roaring guitar and soaring vocals where genres mingle from soul to gospel, funk and voodoo inspired songs.
